MORRIS MAITEM

Cavite, Philippines

Emiliano Tria Tirona
National High School

Morris is currently attending Emiliano Tria Tirona National High School as a senior. Morris' hobbies are singing, dancing and reading. He participated in dance presentations since elementary school and even up to now. Morris is also part of a church youth club, where he helps distribute donated goods to his community. He is interested in studying Office Management for his college degree and states he doesn't mind staying locally (University of the Philippines). He wants to be part of what makes a business successful and develop his leadership skills as the company grows. The company would focus on vocational training to allow students to develop skills that would help them in their everyday lives. Morris sees nutrition or food security as an issue that youth face within his community. He would like to tackle this issue by developing a feeding a program.

So far GT has not provided financial support to Morris but only conversations about his college interest in Manila. He is also working together with Brixter Rebullar to come up with a proposed Community Project in their neighborhoods.
